HOLD NEIGHBOR AS A WITNESS

Brattleboro Farmer Disappears Mysteriously from His Home.

Brattleboro, Vt., Nov. 2.—On account of the disappearance of Arthur Kingsley, a Sherman milk farmer, the authorities of Windham county have retained Carl Perry, aged 30, as a possible witness and today made a search of the county near the Massachusetts boundary line.

Kingsley is 45 years old. He has been missing since Thursday afternoon when, according to his wife and his hired man, he and Perry, a neighbor, left the Kingsley farm together in Perry's wagon.

Perry says Kingsley got out of the wagon and left him after riding a short distance. Perry is a dealer in horses.

POLICE FAIL TO CONTROL STRIKE

Governor Charges Authorities of Indianapolis Are Not Doing Their Duty.—Two Men Shot to Death and Cars Withdrawn from Streets

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2.—The Indianapolis Traction and Terminal Co., whose men went on strike Friday evening, attempted to run its cars today but gave up when notified by Supt. of Police Hyland that the police would be unable to prevent bloodshed unless the cars were withdrawn.

Joseph Johnson, a striking motorman, was shot and wounded by a policeman who fired into the crowd that surged around the first car to be sent out. The cars were taken from the barns each filled with policemen, but the crowds picked around them so tightly that they could not be moved. Soon after the shooting of Johnson they were ordered back to the barns.

Governor Reardon in a statement tonight charged that the city authorities are not doing their duty in failing to provide police protection. He refused to request any Mayor Low Shank, that he cast out the militia and declared that the mayor has full authority to provide sufficient protection to run the cars.

"I regret very much that the city authorities are not controlling the strike situation in Indianapolis," he said in the statement. Their failure to do so is disgracing our capital city in the eyes of the country and it will be no less a disgrace to Indianapolis if the governor is ultimately compelled to call out the militia to enforce the law and maintain order because the city officials fail to discharge their plain and sworn duty."

Strike Breaker Killed

In an attempt to rush the Louisiana street car barns where the imported strike breakers are quartered, Isaac Fleischer, a strike breaker, from Philadelphia, was fatally shot in the neck and died on the way to the hospital. Fleischer was shot by one of the men in the barn who was firing into the crowd from a second story window.

The police had the streets around the barns roped and when they let down the ropes for an automobile to pass the crowd rushed through. The strikers and their friends pushed past the police and as they approached the barns they were met with a volley of shots from the second story window of the barns. Fleischer fell almost at the feet of police sergeant Sanders, whom he was helping to stop the rush. A dozen shots were fired but Fleischer was the only one hit.

The mob then started for the West Washington street barns, but was met at the Labor Temple by Milton S. Clayson, an attorney prominent in labor circles, who headed with the crowd to abstain from violence. The trip was abandoned.

Import Men from Ohio

One hundred and fifty strike breakers from Cincinnati were expected to arrive today.

WILL REMOVE THE STATION

Two Factions Arguing Over the Waiting Room on South Street.

The building on the corner of South street and Miller Avenue, used as a waiting room by the street railway will be removed. This has been decided by the management after considering a petition sent in several days ago by residents in that locality. It is evident that its removal will cause some controversy among the patrons of the road. While the petitioners claim that it has been a nuisance, another faction want the railroad to still maintain it; somewhere at the junction of these streets. The company at present has planned to discontinue it for good.

WILL SHIP ENGINE ON TUESDAY

On the arrival of the machine it will be taken to Nobles Island and given a tryout in the hands of the local firemen. Engine 2, will be sent to these shops the same day as per the contract for the same amount of overhauling.

Engine 1, will be located at the house of Engine 2 during the repairing.

Elimination of Dictator Held to be Essential to the Success of Any Constitutional Election.—Has Definite Scheme if Huerta Holds On Washington, Nov. 2.—Though every official of the United States government has been cautioned to maintain absolute silence while the plans of the United States government for the solving of the Mexican problem are being worked out, it became known from many well informed sources today that a supreme effort is being made to bring about Gen. Victoriano Huerta's retirement from the provisional presidency of Mexico.

YOUNG COUPLE DOUBLE SUICIDE

Bodies Found Beside Each Other With Bullet Holes in Temples.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 2.—A double suicide was brought to light today when the decomposed bodies of James E. Bly an 18 year old medical student, of Philadelphia and his 19 year old bride were found in the woods near Northfield. Bullet wounds in the temples of each, a revolver containing 2 empty chambers lying between them, and a note signed by both, convinced the police that the couple ended their lives as the result of a suicide pact.

The note which was in the young man's handwriting read:

"Death is the easiest way out. Rose will kill herself first and I will follow."

Other letters found in Bly's clothing told of parental objection to their wedding, which friends say took place in August.

The couple had been missing since Sept. 8. The youth's father is Albert J. Bly, a well known railroad man of Altoona, Pa. His wife was the daughter of Mrs. M. E. Herring of this city.

FIREBUG AGAIN SCARES BEACH

Detected in Effort to Ignite Cottage at Salisbury, He Flees.

For the second time within a few weeks an attempt was made to set fire to the cottages on Salisbury Beach early Sunday morning. The firebug whose identity remains unknown was discovered by Eugene Gauthier, who was returning from the south end. As a result of the occurrence citizens occupying cottages at the beach have appealed for greater police protection.

Two state police officers made their appearance at the beach yesterday.

Gauthier says he saw the firebug applying a wooden torch to the cottage formerly owned by Thomas Cotley of Lawrence. When the man saw him he fled toward the center. Gauthier, in pursuit. The latter awoke Police Officer Fowler who notified Chief Beekman. The officers tried to locate the man but were unsuccessful.

Less than an hour later word was received by them that a man apparently exhausted by running, had appeared at the Salisbury car barn and asked the way to Newburyport. The night watchman of the barn telephoned to the Newburyport police, but no trace was had of the fugitive.

Gauthier who extinguished the fire on the Cotley cottage before giving chase was unable to describe the firebug, other than to say that he wore a cap.

In August more than 150 cottages on the beach were destroyed by fire, which was believed to have been of incendiary origin, and three weeks ago three other cottages were burned.

EXETER IS THE FAVORITE

Exeter will now go into the big contest of the year against Andover next Saturday with a clear slate for the preliminary season, and if ever the New Hampshire boys had reason to hope for a victory, it is in this fall. Tad Jones's charges have shown improvement in form in each game and just now are at the height of their power. From the games played Andover appears to have a very ordinary team, and with Exeter favored by the battle being waged on their own grounds, the Crimson should win and win decisively. A strange feature of these games however, is that the favorites rarely come out on top.

STATE HAS SAME LAW TO TAKE EFFECT IN 1914

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 2.—Pennsylvania's new woman's employment law went into effect today and the limit of hours of employment for women and girls will be fifty-four per week, except in the home and on the farm. The new law prohibits the employment of women or girls for more than six consecutive days and not more than ten hours in any one day. One of the features of the law is that forty-five minutes must be allowed for the mid-day meal and a rest period of the same length after continuous employment for six hours. Night employment is limited to telephone operators over eighteen years of age and to women employed as managers, superintendents, clerks and stenographers. The department of labor and industry, which is charged with the enforcement of the law, will, according to a statement issued today by Commissioner Jackson, be reasonably anxious to bring about the conditions required by the statute without enacting unnecessary hardship. The effect of the law will be to cause many changes in industrial and mercantile establishments and its applicability to theatrical people and various classes of employees will be worked out after advice from the attorney general's department.

Automobiles registered by residents of New Hampshire numbered 6481, with 421 re-registrations; automobiles registered by non-residents, 1002; commercial vehicles, 532; motorcycles, 795. Chauffeurs' licenses were issued to 2370 applicants and operators' licenses to 7356 applicants.

PORTLAND FAIRLY DRY

Portland, Me., Nov. 2.—A careful inspection of all sections of this city failed to find an open saloon. It is said that many of the former liquor dealers have stocked their old hiding places and found new ones and that they will be in a position to sell through peddlers for some time without running the risk of having liquor seized by the deputies of Sheriff Graham.

Judge Merrill of the Municipal Court has given some of the liquor seized just before the death of Sheriff

ANCESTRAL HOME SCENE OF MARRIAGE

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 2.—Norman B. Smith of Boston and Hildegarde, younger son of Ex-Gov. and Mrs. John B. Smith, and Miss Dorothy H. Warren, daughter of Solon G. Warren of Brookline, Mass., were married Saturday noon at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Charles E. Warren, in the presence of members of the two families. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Green, pastor of the Unitarian Church, assisted by Rev. Robert W. Wallace of the Smith Memorial Church at Hildegarde.

The best man was Archibald Smith brother of the groom. The bride was unattended and was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was a diamond model, mediterranean blue duvetyne, trimmed with sable fox in gold lace. Her hat was a late-de-negre, also trimmed with sable. Her single ornament was a diamond pendant, the gift of the groom.

An informal reception and breakfast followed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Smith started on a trip of unannounced itinerary. They will live at 1118 Commonwealth avenue, Alston, Mass. The groom is with a Boston firm of brokers.

MORE POLICE WORK FOR U. S. IN SOUTH AMERICA

London, Nov. 1.—Diplomatic communications are now being exchanged between the British and American governments with reference to what is described as another Putumayo scandal. This time the scene of the alleged atrocities is northern Bolivia, and the charges implicate a highly placed official in the service of that republic.

There is reason to believe the British foreign office to whose notice a new series of atrocities was brought in the first instance, has so far contented itself with referring the charges to Washington, without committing itself to any expression of opinion, or declaration of intentions.

Rightly or wrongly, the inference is drawn that Sir Edward Grey is not only reluctant to hand over to the American government, the task of investigating the reported atrocities, but that he considers, especially in view of Mr. Wilson's recent speeches, that it was our particular business to act as policeman on the south and Central American continent.

The story of the atrocities was brought to England by a young English accountant, who in 1905 went from Liverpool to Iquitos, Peru, where he engaged in a trading business and the collection of rubber. Going to Manaus he joined the Madeira Railway Company which was constructing a line in Bolivia.

The company is registered here with English shareholders. His duties took him about the line under construction and the river and valleys. His opinion is that a system of peonage is prevalent in this Bolivian territory, worse even than the Putumayo region.

Poisoned Whole Tribe.
An incident which the English accountant described well known to those who live in the locality concerned, relates how two brothers were concessionaires and had the handling of a large number of natives in collecting wild rubber. One of them, being alone and anxious to impress the natives with the power and precision of his rifle, used up all his cartridges in an exhibition of marksmanship. The Indians became aware that he had no longer the power to shoot and closed in on him and speared him. When his brother returned, and came to know of the affair he got trade gin, doctoring it with arsenic and leaving it where the Indians would find it with the result that one entire tribe was almost wiped out. Relatives of this man are now deriving profits from the rubber collection in north Bolivia.

The accountant, who was in the country eight years, and returned to England only a month ago, says he has been witness of slashings and murders, murder and torturing, on the whole, he says, the natives are a mild and easily managed race, who take no violent dislike to the white men unless aroused by acts of treachery or violence.

A case which came under his personal observation was that of an Indian strapped upendangle fashion and flogged violently until in his agony he turned his head round when the whip tore an eye out. Still another case was that of a Bolivian who was tied up by the arms for five days in such a way he was unable to move and the blood in the upper extremities could not circulate. When he was taken down he was sent to the civil authorities for trial on a charge of misdeemeanor.

Amputated Both Arms.
It was found necessary to put him in the hospital and amputate both arms, one at the elbow and the other at the shoulder. The limbs had become gangrenous. This operation was performed by doctors of the Madeira Manora Railway Company, an American concern registered in the state of Maine.

The Englishman says in the upper regions of the Amazon and its tributaries the only people able to keep order are the Brazilians, and that in any case the only individual man who can command respect is the possessor of a 44 Winchester.

A wealthy rubber patron, who was master or manager of natives in a wild rubber area, had five Indians suffering badly from beri-beri, and unable to do their part of collecting for a short time. They were left alone, but becoming impatient, the manager ordered them to be taken out and put on a flat rock forming part of a rapid in the Jacay Parana river. They were too ill to move or help themselves in any way. They were allowed to remain there all night, so that the river, gradually rising, swept them away and they were never seen again.

PICTURE STAMP FAD IS SPREADING

Started in Germany and Bids Fair to Outdo the Postal Card Craze.

Something new under the sun! Here's really a new craze which has been catching the enthusiasm of all Europe, young and old, for the past six months. It is the craze of the "Picture Stamp"—and before many weeks it promises to sweep across the ocean and invade our ports as well.

It was Germany that discovered and made universally popular the picture postcard; and now that the custom of sending and collecting these is on the wane, it has discovered and popularized a successor. It looks as if it is a very worthy one, and likely to rival, if not actually exceed, the popularity of the postcard.

"Reclame Marken" is the German name of this new fad. They resemble postage stamps, though they are usually a little larger. Like them, they come in sheets, are perforated and easily torn apart. They are bright in color, adhesive, of endless variety of subject and purpose.

Thousands and thousands of these picture stamps are everywhere in evidence. Stationers' windows fairly glow with their bright bits of red and blue and green; department stores devote entire counters to their display and sale, and scarcely a boy or girl in the great empire of the Kaiser is without an album, large or small in which is a growing collection of "marken."

has truly assumed the proportions of a craze) has passed up into the older generation to the grown-ups, who find pleasure and occupation in collecting the high class "marken" which are now rapidly appearing on the scene—reproductions of famous masterpieces in color, in monochrome or etching, brilliant poster effects and veritable gems of art.

What are "Reclame Marken," what called them into being and what are they used for?

Less than eighteen months ago an important South German manufacturer of chocolates and sweets issued several highly attractive poster showcards advertising his wares. When the popularity of these posters grew at its height the firm conceived the idea of having them reproduced in small label form, of the size and character of postage stamps, with gummed backs to be pasted on each letter. And postcard they went out—and they went out in great many. One of these little pictures was also placed within the wrapper of each penny piece of chocolate.

Before long the children were buying their chocolate sticks for the sake of the souvenir stamp. The idea had caught on and other manufacturers followed the example as quickly as the lithographers could be set to work. Soon an important coffee roaster was distributing "stamps," packets of bread and biscuits, soda manufacturers and milk dealers, and in their train hundreds more followed with stamps illustrating in attractive form some of the most popular fairy tales. In this way appeared Red Riding Hood, Cinderella and Robinson Crusoe, each story told in a series of some half dozen pictures, which the children were eager to gather and hoard.

In the same way sets of military stamps were issued—pictures of all sorts of soldiers, German and French, English and Russian, infantry, cavalry and artillery—and sailors and ships, men-of-war, and marines of all nations. And then came series of nationalities, wild and domestic birds, butterflies and insects, buds and blossoms. Every butcher and baker, grocer and confectioner maker was making effective bids to attract the children to his shop by offering these stamps free. And the children came, that's certain.

But all this proved merely a prelude to the craze of the picture stamp. Art publishers—and in Germany their name is legion—realized that the time was ripening for them to enter the lists with collections of more artistic quality, of greater variety and of a superior character of stamp. As a consequence every known process of the printing trades was called into requisition and numberless firms have issued formidable collections of every imaginable subject, including miniature reproductions of almost every known masterpiece. All these are now sold to countless collectors, young and old, at the price of from 1 to 10 pfennig each (one-fifth of one cent to two and one-half cents each).

But this is not all. Many other and important uses are being made of the picture trading stamps; for example, as "boosters" for local exhibitions, of which there seem to be no end in Germany, and for particular towns, where individuals as well as tradesmen will for months paste to every letter or postcard a picture stamp illustrating some view or feature of the town or exhibition and thus impress the same on the minds of the public.

Steamship routes and boat lines issue stamps with appropriate designs, urging their use on the traveling public. Railroads, too, as for instance, with pictures of Niagara, bearing the legend, "The Niagara Route." Millions of stamps are issued and spread abroad, bounding certain localities for homes, with glimpses of pretty cottages and with "For Health and Comfort live in Charlottenberg," conspicuously printed on them.

At the Yuletide season stamps bearing in neat design a sprig of green holly or a fiery poinsettia blossom convey the old-time greeting of "A Merry Christmas" and are attached to all letters, cards and parcels. Similar stamps are used at holiday time in asking aid for charitable institutions and others which are sold at church fairs and charity bazaar. As a matter of fact, in Germany the uses already found for the picture trading stamps are as varied as they are numerous.

Thousands of presses and many times that number of individuals have found profitable enjoyment in their designing, photo making and printing; thousands more in marketing them. Several of the most important publishers and advertising concerns of the United States have already placed their orders. America is going to follow the example just as it did in the making and distributing of the picture postcard. And with American energy and ingenuity, it will develop and extend the usefulness of the picture stamp to the uttermost.

THE BULGARIANS AGAIN LOSING OUT

Constantinople, Nov. 2.—According to information received here from Thrace the Gümüldjina militia are getting out of hand. The unhappy region is again being devastated and the remaining Bulgarian population exterminated. It is considered less and less likely that Bulgaria will succeed in entering into possession of the districts awarded to her by the treaties of Bucharest and Constantinople, even to force of arms. It is certain that Turkey is bent upon regaining as much of her lost territory as possible. It may be noted that the territory nominally acquired by Bulgaria between the former frontier and the Aegean is in extent about double that ceded to Romania, with about an equal population in normal times. Unless Bulgaria speedily occupies the Aegean littoral, who seems likely to emerge from a year's fighting with a net loss of about 7500 kilometers of territory and of 20,000 population over and above her losses of men and material.

When it was decided that Gümüldjina was to become Bulgarian most of the Turks and all the Greeks left the district, but the Turks are now returning. There are very few Bulgarians there. Even if Bulgarian troops were to occupy the region in regard to which negotiations were then proceeding, it was understood that the local administration would remain entirely in Turkish hands under Bulgarian suzerainty.

A Suspension of Naval Construction.

Anent the building of new battleships, it may be said truthfully that the United States has already had its twelve-month layoff, during which it passed from second into third place as a sea power; but, nevertheless, there can be no particular harm in passing the following resolution if our Congressmen at Washington see fit to so act:

"Resolved, That in the opinion of the House of Representatives the declaration of the Lord of the Admiralty of Great Britain, the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, that the Government of the United Kingdom is willing and ready to co-operate with other Governments to secure for one year a suspension of the naval construction program offers the means for immediately lessening the enormous burdens of the people and avoiding the waste of investments in war material."

Nothing of great importance will come out of the proposal until Germany is agreeable, and Germany so far has shown no sign of an intent to change its building plans.

Uncle Sam, therefore, must meet the situation as it is and not as it ought to be.

Even Mr. Hensley of Missouri, who introduced the expression of sympathy with the English overture (a "little navy" man), says that he desires to be sane about the matter of armament.

"I do not want to throw away my gun," he adds, "if the other fellow keeps his and is going to buy another one."—Boston Globe.

Weary Titans of the Sea.

Mr. Daniels' suggestion of a truce in warship building is informally made, but is none the less worthy of note as an indication of the trend of thought among naval powers. A little while ago the British naval secretary made a more specific proposal, to the same effect, to Germany alone, which was somewhat curtly declined. But that incident does not deter Mr. Daniels from cherishing the same scheme on a still more ambitious scale. It is, in fact, the enlargement of its scope that gives the proposition chief interest. The British proposal related to only two rivals, while the American comprises all the great naval powers. Germany might not unreasonably decline to stop shipbuilding just because Great Britain did, while Russia and France were pushing on with feverish zeal. But no one power could so easily decline to unite with all the rest in such cessation.—New York Tribune.

Want Lower Car Steps.

Women in Malden and Melrose have joined the movement for lower street car steps and they are putting the matter right up to the companies. The steps should be lowered and they must be. It will cost money, of course, just as the vestibules in the street cars did, but no one would think of giving up the vestibules now. And when the steps are so constructed that getting in and out of cars will be easy and convenient, there will be no demand for the return of the present highly inconvenient arrangement. If the street car companies care anything about the comfort of their patrons they will hasten to bring about the desired improvement.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

Expensive Job for the Holder.

Another illustration of the fact that it costs money to represent the United States properly abroad is shown in the fact that Ambassador Gerard in Berlin has after much hunting secured a suitable house in which to live. He takes for three years a palace for which he will pay $15,000, and with the other attendant expenses, Mr. Gerard will use up his salary several times over in doing the work of the nation. It is rather astonishing that a rich nation which spends money so lavishly in other directions has never properly provided for its representatives abroad.—Brockton Enterprise.

Something to Be Thankful For.

Thanksgiving will soon be here and the pleasing intelligence comes from New York state that there will be an abundant supply of turkeys for the holiday, so dear to residents of New England. As they cannot now be put in cold storage to be kept a year, they will be sent to the market for the price they can command, which is expected to be within the reach of all. This is certainly something to be thankful for.

The Mexican Situation.

To the outside world it looks as though Gen. Huerta was deliberately courting trouble by the course that he is pursuing in Mexico. While we do not like to see the United States involved in trouble with any country, it would not be out of order for it to administer some medicine of such a nature that Gen. Huerta will descend from his lofty perch.

Tomorrow is the battle of ballots in Massachusetts and people of that state will draw a sigh of relief when it is over.

The Czarina of Russia and Son, Who Is Not Expected to Live Long

The stock is winging its way toward the royal palace at St. Petersburg, and a national celebration will be held when the birth of the new member of the Romanoff family occurs. In the illustration the czar is shown with little Grand Duke Alexei, heir to the throne, whose physical condition is such that his death is expected at any moment. The czar recently imported $10,000 worth of sulphurous mud from German mud baths for use in restoring the health of his heir.

WILSON PLANS TO OUST HUERTA

so that he may continue in power in Washington administration, it is pointed out would look upon such a proclamation as an evidence of the incapacity of the presidential authorities, to conduct an election and might come forth with definite proposals to assist in rehabilitating the government machinery of the country.

Made Policy Known Abroad

Just now the future policy of the United States is being publicly and informally made known diplomatically abroad and there are indications that before many days foreign governments generally will have been apprised of the American attitude. It is unlikely that there will be any publication of the American policy until Europe has been sounded off.

What the United States desires it is believed, that the powers shall indicate their support of its efforts to solve the problem so that it may approach the Mexican City appropriation in a final effort to secure the abdication of Huerta. The conference at Vera Cruz between John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, and the Russian, Norwegian and German ministers has not been explained, here, but is thought to be part of the program of enlisting the support of foreign governments.

Senator Bacon, chairman of the foreign relations committee, conferred with President Wilson at the White House late today, but declined to discuss his visit. Asked for his views on the situation in general, the Georgia senator said that one thing needed to insure the peaceful settlement of the Mexican problem was for the government in Europe to indicate in some positive way that they intended to leave in the hands of the United States the formulation of a policy to be pursued toward Mexico and that they will give the policy their support. "If this is made so clear," he said, "that General Huerta will understand, and of course of politicians as well, an demand made by the United States and a peaceful solution of the Mexican problem would very promptly be found."

Will Yield to Force Only

One of the phases of the situation, which is a subject of much comment in official circles is the absence of official denial to the many stories being published every day forecasting intervention of some kind or another.

Secretary Daniels of the navy department when asked concerning the four American ships on the coast of Mexico for whose relief four other ships are on route from Hampton Roads declared that while transfer of the ships was intended, the ships at Vera Cruz had been notified not to leave until ordered.

Though it had been generally supposed that the Huerta government had made objection to the American vessels beyond October 20, the day on which official permission for them to stay expired, it was learned today that no intimation had been conveyed at any time to the United States through official channels against the presence of the ships.

President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and his advisers are constantly occupied with the numerous phases of the situation and are keeping in close touch with the dispatches from Mexico. It is believed that Huerta's proclamation as to the result of the election of October 28th, will be made tomorrow or shortly after.

SULZER TARGET OF ROTTEN EGGS

He Invades Tammany Leader Foley's District, Riot Nearly Results.

New York, Nov. 2.—William Sulzer passed through the most exciting two hours of his life last night when he invaded Tammany Leader Tom Foley's territory, the 2d Assembly district. In his campaign against Tammany Hall, for a time it was feared that the out-door meeting he addressed from a balcony in front of the Home Rule Democratic Club at 48 Madison street would break up in a riot, and the police reserves were called out. Rotten eggs were showered at the deposed Governor by the Tammany adherents, and the fear was expressed freely that he would be shot if he persisted in his attack upon Murphy and his followers.

The 50 or more policemen, who finally got on the scene, succeeded in preventing a free fight by the ready use of the night sticks. Old disappointed horse cars were hustled back and forth on a three-minute schedule through the Sulzer cohorts. Fire apparatus was changing through the streets. A Tammany parade was trying to fight its way through the throng. Mr. Sulzer stuck to his post, leaning far over the balcony, where he was the target of all eyes and a shining mark for gunmen, and shouting at the top of his lungs, he denounced his opponents.

GIRL DYING ON WEDDING DAY

St. Johnsbury Girl in Hospital With Symptoms of Blood Poisoning.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Nov. 2.—Miss Cora Towne, who planned to be married today, is dying at the St. Johnsbury hospital. The girl who is 24 years old, was taken ill yesterday and taken to the hospital when symptoms of a slow working poison were found.

Miss Towne in a statement she is alleged to have made to Sheriff W. H. Worthen, claims the poison was given her by Fred Flynn, a chauffeur for Dr. W. B. Fitch. Flynn was arrested last night and is held in the Caledonia county jail awaiting an investigation by the authorities.

The man who was to marry Miss Towne today was George Couette of Berlin, N. H., a wrestler whom she met a week ago when he participated in a match here.

It is claimed the girl stated to Sheriff Worthen yesterday that Flynn gave her some tablets two weeks ago when she complained of pains in her stomach and told her to take them freely.

According to the girl's mother, Flynn was jealous of other men and threatened her.

Flynn firmly declares he is innocent. He was present at the girl's bedside yesterday when she made the statement resulting in her arrest, but his story has not been shaken. He says that he does not know where she got the tablets. He claims she had shown them to him and he warned her against using them.

CONCORD LETTER

Concord, Nov. 2.—The governor and council were in session two days of last week, but the only announcements made of business transacted were the appointment of November 27 for Thanksgiving Day and the naming of Oliver W. Branch of Manchester as judge of the superior court in place of Judge Robert G. Pike, promoted to be chief justice in place of Judge Wallace, resigned. Judge Branch is the son of Hon. Oliver B. Branch, and while still a young man has established his ability and his knowledge of the law in the minds of his fellow members of the bar, by whom his appointment was sought and is applauded.

During the week the Governor granted further extension of time in the Shaw case after a hearing at Rochester in which William T. Jerome of New York and Judge Stone of Pennsylvania had another clash even fiercer than that which enlivened the hearing in the senate chamber here at the capitol. It is now expected that by the last of this week the case so far as the governor is concerned will have been completed and awaiting his judgment. Then in all probability it will go into the federal courts for an indefinite period.

The Governor also attended during the week the annual meeting and banquet here of the White Mountain Travelers' Association, always one of the jolliest occasions of the year in Concord and somewhat especially so at this time because of its being the 25th anniversary of the association and Halloween as well. The Travelers and their ladies attended a special matinee performance of "The Girl in the Taxi," at the Auditorium and then had a business meeting, followed by the banquet and speeches by Governor Parker, Rev. Drs. Lee S. McColister of Boston and Ashley Day Leavitt of Portland, Me., and others.

Much interest was taken here by legal, political, business and railroad circles in the significant address which was given recently before the Milford board of Trade by General Solicitor Edgar J. Rich of the Boston & Maine in which he told of his long fight to bring about an era of good feeling between the railroad and the state. "Mr. McLen," declared Mr. Rich, "and when he took office that New Hampshire was the one black spot on the railroad map. When he resigned he said it was the one bright spot." "The New Freedom" was the subject of the address. "New Hampshire," said Mr. Rich, "had the best public service commission in the country, but there is danger in keeping too far and making the new freedom a new tyranny. If the real for human rights, property rights are slightly. No railroad was ever so thoroughly investigated and so thoroughly vindicated as the Boston &

WORTH KNOWING.

The daughters of the Presidents who have been married in the White House are as follows:

Martha Monroe, who married her cousin, Samuel Gouverneur; Elizabeth Tyler, who married William Waller; Nellie Grant, who married Algernon Sartoris; and Alice Roosevelt, who married Nicholas Longworth.

So Miss Wilson will be the fifth daughter of a President to be married there, besides being the thirteenth White House bride.

For how much to you suppose the lives of the people of this and other countries are insured?

See this space tomorrow.

CURRENT OPINION

THE EVIL OF THE MUCK RAKING PRESS

No American can go anywhere in this whole world now and not be under immediate suspicion of dishonesty. We are looked upon as a race of rascals and liars, and it is going to take years to live down the opinion of us formed from hearing and reading such talk as is given by papers and politicians of the so-called "progressive" type. We must co-operate—we must get together and stick together to uphold our honor and honesty, as manufacturers and merchants, or these rampant labor men, socialists, and demagogues will be our undoing. All these new fangled ideas about the initiative, referendum and recall, and all of these attacks on capital, no matter how honestly obtained, are for the sole and only purpose of putting more power into the hands of the papers and politicians. In fact, I think the greatest menace that our country has today is a so-called "Free Press," which really means as construed by the papers today, to be a "Licensed Press." Licensed to assault in the vilest manner any and all men who maintain their right to think, talk, and act as free men should, not as slaves to do the work and bidding of papers playing for popularity with the public, with the thoughtless mob.

Be honest! Be true! Be loyal to self and others!

It is right to honor and seek success!—George P. Bent, before the Chicago Chamber of Commerce.

Maine. It is not overcapitalized, but in three months of the present fiscal year the income has fallen off from last year, when no dividends were earned. Rates, therefore, must be increased.

Under an act of the legislature of 1913, "to require the reporting of certain occupational diseases and to provide for its enforcement," the state board of health has issued certificate blanks and instructions for filling them out. These blanks include a medical certificate of disease, to be filled out by the attending physician, and personal and statistical particulars to be furnished by the patient. These reports must be filed with the state board of health within 48 hours after the diagnosis of the disease, under penalty of a $5 fine, and are by the state board of health to be transmitted to the state bureau of labor.

The state board of health also has issued a proclamation declaring the diseases of infantile paralysis and cerebro-spinal meningitis to be "in the language of the New Hampshire statutes, 'malignant communicable diseases,' and 'infectious pestilential diseases'; and requiring, therefore, under the law, that both of these diseases shall be reported by the attending physician or the householder to the local board of health that the premises may be placarded and proper restrictions against the spread of the disease enforced. In addition, Secretary Watson of the board has published some suggestions for the sanitary management of these diseases, of which in some parts of the state there have been so many cases as almost to suggest an epidemic.

Concord is very sorry to lose Superintendent John Bourke of the Concord division of the Boston & Maine railroad, who had been promoted to the superintendency of the Portland division. Mr. Bourke has been a good citizen here, as well as a good railroad man, and has taken a genuine and helpful interest in the welfare of this city and state which has made him a great asset for the railroad's new policy of gaining the public confidence, support and co-operation. Many friends would have liked to join with his local railroad associates in their parting gift of a handsome diamond pin, with a pearl and amethyst pin for Mrs. Bourke.

Mr. Bourke's successor here, Frank P. Fosgate, although he comes to Concord from the Portland division, where he was assistant trainmaster and superintendent of the Portsmouth electric road, was formerly located here as a train despatcher and has many Concord friends.

Major Robert P. Johnston, who is going to St. Louis as commissioner from New Hampshire to the United States Good Roads Congress, is organizing a campaign to give New Hampshire all the profitable advertising possible during the convention in the western city. He has enlisted the co-operation of Hon. S. Percy Hooper, state superintendent of highways, and of some of the leading hotel men of the state, and his purpose is to show by maps, pictures and reading matter some of the beauties of New Hampshire and how they are now accessible by as good roads as any in the country.

JOE BUSH TO HUNT AND TO WED

Brainerd, Minn., Nov. 2.—Leslie Joe Bush, the Athletics pitcher, who made a special trip from this, his home town, to Philadelphia for the banquet to the world champion Athletics last week, arrived here tonight. Bush plans spending the winter here, and will also go on several hunting trips. It is also rumored that a matrimonial venture will occupy some of his attention during the off-season. She isn't a Philadelphia girl, neither has she ever seen a world's series, but resides here in Brainerd, and the two have been friends since childhood.

SEVEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Brick Walls of Warehouse Topple Over on Roofs of Dwellings.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 3.—At least seven persons are supposed to be dead as the result of an explosion in Loveland's five story brick warehouse in North Front street early this morning, when the walls of the building toppled on the roofs of two adjoining buildings. The cause of the explosion was not yet been learned, but there was a fire immediately after it that was soon extinguished.

The two story house occupied by John Hughes, was almost buried under the brick and masonry. Six persons were known to have been in the house at the time: John Hughes, aged 65, a stone cutter; Margaret Hughes, aged 45, his sister; another sister, Mrs. Lucy Dooly, and her three children, two girls and a boy.

The two persons are in the Hartford Hospital and the two others in St. Francis Hospital, supposed to be fatally injured. Their names have not yet been learned.

The roof of a house occupied by a Syrian family was also broken in and members of that family were rescued with difficulty by firemen.

Firemen are still searching the ruins of the Hughes house for the bodies of victims.

One of Mrs. Dooly's children died while being taken to the hospital. There are five persons in hospitals including the dead child, and the firemen say there are two bodies in the ruins. One of these is believed to be Henry Dooly, the husband of Mrs. Dooly.

Michael Greenberg, one of the partners of the warehouse declared to newspapermen that the building was dynamited. He refused to assign any motive or to express himself further.

The explosion seemed to wreck the building in a diagonal manner, one whole side—the one that fell on the Hughes house, falling down. It was definitely ascertained that no one was injured in the house occupied by the Syrian family.

FOUND HANGING BY AN OX CHAIN

Fred W. Steuerwald of Dover Also Stabbed Himself in the Neck.

Dover, N. H., Nov. 2.—Fred W. Steuerwald, known practically to everyone in Dover, committed suicide last evening in the rear room on the second floor of his barn. He stabbed himself in the neck with a small hunting knife and hanged himself with an ox chain. When found by the police a late hour he was dead, and the knife hung from the wound in the right side of the neck, close to the jugular vein.

The knife wound was sufficient to be stated to have caused death, but it is thought the victim to make sure of taking his life before he could be discovered decided to hide himself as well, and being a heavy man, apparently trusted a chain rather than a rope.

Mr. Steuerwald had several customers to supply with fags of new elder last evening and late in the afternoon had telephoned some of them that he would be around to deliver. Early in the evening he went to the barn to hitch up for the trip. His young son was to go with him.

Not returning to the house for some time his wife went to the barn, but did not find him. She then notified the police, and two officers found him in the barn. He is thought to have become suddenly despondent over family troubles, his wife not being in good health it is said.

He was born here January 28, 1879 the son of Louis and Mary Steuerwald and always lived here. He had a large clientele for sweet elder and vinegar, which he manufactured. He is survived by a wife, two sons, and two daughters, his mother, who resides in California, one brother Louis H. Steuerwald of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. W. Irving Verner of Dover, Miss Grace L. Steuerwald of Boston and Mrs. Albert Peas of Lynn. The funeral will be at his home on the highway road Tuesday at 2 p. m.

ROCKPORT MAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Rockport, Nov. 2.—George H. Poole, aged 46 years, a prosperous farmer, was found dead in bed at his home in Prospect street this morning. There was a bullet in his head and a revolver by his side on the bed. The act is believed to have been done while Mr. Poole was temporarily deranged mentally. He had brooded much over the death of his mother four years ago, but when he went to bed Saturday night did not seem more than usually depressed.

The body was found by his father, Joel Poole, who lived with his son, at 10 o'clock this morning. The elder Poole went to the barn shortly before that time and found that the cattle had not been attended to, nor any of the ordinary chores done. He went to his son's room, and finding the door locked broke in. Mr. Poole had been dead several hours.

He was prominent in town affairs and in Masonic circles of Rockport.

GIRL ARTIST IS FOUND IN N. Y.

Has Been Missing from Home in Brookline, Mass., for Four Days.

Brookline, Mass., Nov. 2.—Miss Elizabeth Walker, the artist who has been missing since Wednesday, was brought home tonight by her father, Arthur L. Walker and placed in a private sanitarium.

According to Mr. Walker his daughter has been subject from time to time to mental trouble. During an attack Wednesday she left home and boarded a train for New York, registering at a hotel, where she has been since. Yesterday Mr. Walker received a message from P. J. Salaschin of New York that a young woman answering the description of Miss Walker had been found in that city. Accompanied by Dr. Samuel W. Ellsworth, the family physician, the father took the midnight train to New York and today met his daughter in the hotel. He said she recognized him and seemed glad to see him.

PRESIDENT WILSON WILL BE PREPARED FOR MEXICO

Army and Navy Looking for Rush Orders Any Time--Conditions in Mexico the Same.

Washington, Nov. 2.—That the President will demand the elimination of Huerta and his followers, under penalty of intervention by the United States in Mexico, is reported here. Activities in army and navy circles are said to indicate this.

Despite efforts at secrecy, it became known today that both the army and navy stand ready to proceed against Mexico should there be any occasion for it. Transportation for troops has been arranged with railroad and steamship companies, as needed, and in the last three days orders have gone forth from the office of the Chief of the Quartermaster's corps to have iron and vessels ready. The officers in command of the army transports at Baltimore have been ordered to stock up with provisions and coal. Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American war ships at Vera Cruz, has reported to the General Board of the Navy that he could take Vera Cruz in six hours, land troops and control the railroad between Vera Cruz and Mexico City.

Fleet Within Wireless Touch
Communication is maintained with the main portion of the Atlantic fleet, which is on route to the Mediterranean. The operator of the navy's wireless station at Radio, Va., has received instructions not to let the fleet get out of reach of wireless. The fleet is shipping slowly, according to reports received at the Navy Department.

With the arrival of the second division of the Atlantic fleet in Vera Cruz on Tuesday, the United States will have seven battleships and two gunboats there. On the West Coast there are three armored cruisers. Each of the warships at Vera Cruz has 800 men and 100 marines aboard. About three-fourths of the men on the vessels are available for shore duty.

President Wilson received a secret despatch today from John Lind, his personal representative at Vera Cruz. Secretary Bryan carried it to the White House, but neither he nor the President would divulge its contents. Later a despatch was received, saying that Mr. Lind had had a conference with the German Minister to Mexico, Herr Von Helldorf. The latter went from Mexico City to Vera Cruz to confer with the commanders of the two German cruisers off Vera Cruz.

Another report which reached the capital today stated that there would be a meeting of foreign representatives in Vera Cruz tomorrow or Monday. This despatch added that the road from Vera Cruz to Mexico City was open and well guarded by Huerta troops.

May Adopt Cleveland Plan
Reports reached Washington that Huerta was out of funds and that many of his troops and civil employees would miss their pay.

It was current today that President Wilson would make known his new Mexican policy in a message to Congress, following the precedent set by President Cleveland in the Venezuela-Great Britain dispute in 1895.

Some assert that this message will consist of an exposition of the revolution which have torn Mexico for the last three years, the failure of the President's efforts to end the war by mediation and a call on Congress for support in the landing of marines and troops as a police force.

for floating the revolving lights in lighthouses. The Commissioners of Northern Lighthouses, Edinburgh, have in their charge ninety lighthouses on the coast of Scotland. Up to the year 1908 the revolving lights were hoisted on rollers. The "float" system has been gradually introduced, however, and is now in operation at thirty coast stations and will be used at all others. The lighting machinery rests on a pontoon which runs on quicksilver in a groove. The quantity of mercury required in a lighthouse is from seven to eight flasks or seventy-five pounds each.—Consular Reports.

UMBRELLA PROBLEM SOLVED

New Rainy Day Scheme to Be Tried Out in Brussels.

Brussels leads the world in a new industry which promises to alleviate man's inconvenience on a rainy day. A company has just been formed with a capital of $1,000,000 for the purpose of lending umbrellas to those who need them. Here is the scheme:

A man pays a premium of $1 a year, and in return receives an aluminum dish. A rainstorm suddenly comes up while he is on his way to the office. Instead of making for the nearest shelter he drops into the first shop he comes to, he is a cafe, a restaurant or a tobacconist. He presents his aluminum dish and receives in return an umbrella.

When the shower is over it is not necessary to return the umbrella to the place where he got it. All he does is to stop into any shop displaying the sign of the umbrella organization and turn in his "coupon" in exchange for which he receives another dish. The scheme has great possibilities and it remains to be seen if it will be prosperous.—New York Sun.

MAROOED TEN YEARS

Party of Ten Eskimos Taken from Island in North of Hudson's Bay.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 31.—Hudson's Bay officials here have just received meagre reports from the North that a party of Eskimos numbering, it is said, ten persons, were rescued from an island in the north of Hudson's Bay, upon which they had been marooned for a period of ten years. It appears that the Eskimos were caught off shore on drift ice and carried after long weeks of hardship to the island upon which they were found. This island has been steadfastly avoided by passing vessels because of reefs and magnetic disturbances when a hundred miles off the mainland. The Eskimos had lived during all the period of their forced stay on fish and seal meat. Several children were born during the decade of their imprisonment, and some of the party had died. Those who were rescued seemed all to be in good health.

IN SIX YEARS WENT 21 MILES

Postoffice Mystery Kansas People Would Like Solved.

That the wheels of the United States Postal Department grind rapidly is not always true as a photograph received at Salina, Kas., which was mailed to Miss May Murphy of Salina six years ago at Prescott, 21 miles west of Salina, testifies. Miss Murphy was at that time living with her mother on Minneapolis avenue, and has since been married to William C. Green. She was expecting the photo, and not receiving it, had given it up for lost years ago. The package bore the Postoffice postmark of 1907, and the address was plainly written.

Where the package had been in the meantime is a mystery. The wrapper did not indicate that it had been frequently handled.

NAVY YARD ORDER "DISCRIMINATION"

The navy department's order on Thursday prohibiting employees of the Boston navy yard from taking part in the Massachusetts campaign was brought before the House today.

Representative Britton of Chicago described this as a glaring discrimination in the rights accorded citizens receiving pay from the United States government, and calls upon the President to furnish a list of high officials who have been absent in recent weeks promoting the interests of candidates for office.

It is unlikely that the House will take any action upon the resolution.

A further attempt will be made to start the cars tomorrow morning. Superintendent of Police Hyland notified Robert I. Todd, president of the traction company that he would supply as many men as possible and Todd declared he would start the cars as soon as the police were ready to go with them.

The down-town streets remained packed with people although most of the disturbances ended when the attempt to move the cars ceased. The police mingled with the crowds but made little effort to disperse them except when the crowds surged too roughly around the deserted street cars that stood in the down town streets.

Four Officers Resign

Four policemen resigned and turned in their badges when ordered to accompany the cars. In spite of Superintendent Hyland's orders to arrest patrol wagon loads in order to disperse the crowd not more than a dozen men were taken to the police station during the day. Bicycle policemen Gollins and Basting were struck by bricks and hurt while trying to disperse a crowd of men and boys at Illinois and Washington streets and Lieut. Larmfuer in charge of the police guarding the Louisiana street car barns, was struck by a piece of flying wood and had to be taken home. The streets around the Louisiana street barns where most of the important strikebreakers are held, were crowded most of the day and the sympathizers made no effort to attack the barns.

Last night, however, bricks were used to break all of the barn windows. These were boarded up by morning, and the barn made a secure fort where the strike breakers spent most of the day.

One Man Shot

Only two cars filled with policemen and manned with strike breakers pulled out of the barn in the morning. A rock struck the first conductor in the face and a policeman who stood with his drawn revolver fired into the crowd. The crowd fell back, but a curvy, where the trolley left the wire, the sympathizers packed the tracks so closely that the cars could not be started until the police rode them through. The crowd continued to pack around the mark, which were slowly worked to the barn and the attempt to run them given up.

William G. Beatty, president of the Central Labor Union, sent a communication to the governor protesting that the crowds around the car barns did not represent organized labor, deploring the violence and urging that the police disperse the gatherings. The authorities do not expect that any serious disorders will result until another effort is made to start the cars.

Socialists Embrace Opportunity

Numerous Socialist orators made the most of the crowded down town streets the opportunity of lecturing. In reply the speakers addressed those around the car barns all day and most of last night. Another relay spoke to those assembled near the state house. President Todd of the Traction Co. declared that only a small number of employees went on the strike willingly. "The motemen and conductors are willing and anxious to run their cars," he said and have not joined the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Railway men of their own free will. They have been dragged from their cars and matched under threats of death to the hall, where they have been forced to join.

WORKS ALL DAY

And Studies at Night on Grape-Nuts Food

Some of the world's great men have worked during the day and studied evenings to fit themselves for greater things. But it requires a good constitution generally to do this. A Georgia man was able to keep it up with ease after he had learned the sustaining power of Grape-Nuts, although he had failed in health before he had changed his food supply. He says:

"Three years ago I had a severe attack of stomach trouble which left me unable to eat anything but bread and water.

The nervous strain at my office from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., and improper food caused my health to fall rapidly. Certain so-called foods were tried without benefit (until) saw Grape-Nuts mentioned in the paper.

"In hopeless desperation I tried Grape-Nuts and at once gained strength, flesh and appetite. I am now able to work all day at the office and study at night, without the nervous exhaustion that was usual before I tried Grape-Nuts. "It leaves me strengthened, refreshed, satisfied; nerves quieted and toned up, body and brain waste restored. I would have been a living skeleton, or more likely a dead one by this time, if it had not been for Grape-Nuts."

A DRAG HUNT HELD AT RYE

The Myopia Hunt Club had a drag-hound hunt over the North Hampton course Saturday afternoon, about 30 riders participating, six of whom were women. Among the women riders were Mrs. Rice, Miss Hilda Rice and Miss Mandell. The hunt was made from the Page place in North Hampton and was over a five-mile course to Lovers Lane, West Nyack, where fresh mounts were taken.

The last half of course, which is considered the stiffest in New England, containing 63 jumps and 11 in-and-out lanes, was through Rye Center across country to the old Jennes place at Breakfast Hill. All of the riders went over the entire course. Dr. A. C. Heffenger of this city was the only local participant.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious Fruit Laxative Can't Harm Tender Little Stomach, Liver and Bowels

Every mother realizes after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste, and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When croup, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, hiccups at the tongue mother! It could give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomachache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember a good inside cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep California Syrup of Figs handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of California Syrup of Figs, which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the Genuine, made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

AGED PAIR INHALE GAS TOGETHER

New York, Nov. 2.—Every evening of the last four months, Carl Rottman, 65 years old, had to return to his flat at 1951 Second avenue and tell his aged and crippled wife that he had been unable to find a job.

At last the little money they had was all gone, and they owed a little in the grocery and the butcher. There was no help in sight, and this morning they sat down side by side in the living room, bound rubber tubes to their faces and turned on the gas.

This afternoon the janitor's boy came and sent for a policeman, who broke into the Rottman flat. Seated in her chair was Mrs. Rottman, dead. Unconscious on the floor lay her husband, not more than a few inches from the window, which was raised a little way. It seemed probable that Rottman's resolution to die gave way and he tried to push up the window sash for the fresh air. There is little chance of the old man living.

GEORGE A. TRAFTON

TO GUARD AGAINST AIRSHIPS IN TIME OF WAR

Washington, Nov. 2.—The new department at the British War Office which is charged, under the direction of Brigadier General David Henderson, with the development of the air service has had intubated for use in army training a set of observation instructions. These rules are very interesting and are the outcome of aggregate experience in scouting and observing under all conditions. Aircraft are to fly at a rate not less than three thousand feet when exposed to rifle fire, and when artillery is underneath them this altitude must be increased by another thousand feet. Under misty conditions it is left to the pilot to drop lower if objects cannot be distinctly seen. As a rule observers in aircraft are best able to judge whether they are under fire or not. The general staff notes are as follows:

1. The accurate observation of bodies of troops largely depends on two circumstances: (a) The background; that is, the color of the ground on which the troops may be at the moment; and (b) movement; i. e., troops on the move are far more easily seen than when they remain absolutely still.

2. A column of troops moving along a white or light-colored road can be easily seen from almost any height, whilst an extended line of infantry scattered on the grass amongst small bushes will seldom be detected if they remain still. Troops should on an account look up at aircraft for nothing is more conspicuous than men's faces.

3. When troops are marching along a broad road it is advisable that strict march discipline be maintained, the troops being kept well to one side of the road, so that the remaining side, if kept absolutely clear, will look like the whole of the road, and will probably not attract the observers' attention.

4. Troops in column of route on a narrow road may escape observation if they at once take cover on either side of the road and remain absolutely still, close under the hedges.

5. Woods belts of trees, high hedges, and villages all offer complete shelter from observation if taken advantage of when the aircraft is still at a distance.

6. When moving over country in extended order or in small columns, troops should take cover under the nearest trees, hedges, or patches of grass and bushes lying still close under the edge of such vegetation, until the aeroplane has passed on.

7. Formed bodies of infantry must be got under trees or into woods if they are to escape observation for in open they are certain to be seen. Artillery will probably be unable to conceal either their guns or their horses, except in very favorable country where trees are numerous and the view much restricted. Guns in the open will not be easily seen, and the only hope of concealment is to occupy a position close up to a hedge or a wall and fire through it.

8. When troops are in camp, or in bivouac, every endeavor should be made to alter the usual formation with a view to deceive the observer and causing him to mistake one unit for another, e. g., a battery for a field company; R. E. Guns can be covered with tarpaulin or hay. Where feasible, cooking should be done near villages, so that the smoke does not attract attention.

9. The question will often arise as to how long the presence of a hostile aeroplane is to be permitted to interfere with or paralyze the maneuvers which may be in progress. Time may be a more important factor than discovery, and brigade commanders must judge whether it is more advisable to delay the movement by taking cover and remaining hidden, or to continue the maneuvers.

In recent training both the Third and Fourth divisions succeeded in escaping observation, and some of the cavalry were also able to remain undetected. The concealing of troops from aircraft observation having been successfully demonstrated the above rules are interesting as embodying the conditions under which commanders succeeded in avoiding the notice of aircraft when moving considerable bodies.

A GHOST'S DINNER IN FLEET STREET

How "Ye Cheekie Cheese" remains an inn of mirth is related in the London Chronicle in a recent report, here given:

There was a sound of revelry and good fellowship at "Ye Cheekie Cheese," the famous hostelry in Wine Office court, Fleet street, the other evening when a gallant company—many of whom seemed to have stepped out of the pictures of the National Portrait Gallery—were assembled to open the pudding season.

Dr. Johnson, whose favorite exercise was "a walk down Fleet street," was the person of Mr. Arthur Coombe. Guy Fawkes was represented by that well-known artist and poster designer, Mr. John Hassall; Mr. Matthew Clark was "Little Dave Garrick"; Shakespeare was not inappropriately represented by the president of the Poets' Club, Mr. Henry Simpson; and Mr. Galloway Kyte, a member of the Poetry Society, came as Charles Dickens.

He found himself in the company of a contemporary whom he greatly admired, Willie Collins, who in private life is Mr. T. Power.

Charles the Second presided over the supper in a manner that did credit to Mr. H. T. Worthing, who took the part, and had on his left hand a fair impersonation of Nell Gwynne.

"Hare Ben Johnson" came to the supper in the person of Mr. J. Ashton Johnson, whose genealogical tree goes back to that vigorous poet, dramatist, and Bohemian.

The summons to the supper was drawn up by Mr. John Hassall, and was suitably headed "Ye Ghostie Dinner." There was music and speech-making, and "Ye Graham, Glee Singers," delighted the company with the "merric madrigal, or some light fancy from their repertory, what time ye guests shall intersperse their conversation with quaffs of ye ale or other beverage," to quote from Mr. Hassall.

tion would seem to account for the fact that houses long unoccupied still are infested with this pest. The insect, however, is quite capable of leaving any quarters where it is unable to thrive, and will often migrate to an adjoining house if the residents leave its present habitation vacant. It displays such apparent intelligence in using every means of escape, as windows, walls, water pipes and gutters, that it may be the misfortune of any housewife to have her premises invaded, despite the best of care. The insect also displays a surprising facility for concealment, and will abandon beds before daylight and go to distant quarters for protection far beyond the reach of the most diligent search.

Brimstone an Inexpensive and Successful Remedy.

From his habits of concealment this pest is usually beyond the reach of powders and the ordinary insect powders such as pyrethrum are of practically no value. The eradication of the insect is comparatively easy from iron and brass bedsteads, but wooden bedsteads offer a much more difficult task. This must be introduced into crevices with small brushes or feathers, or by injecting with small syringes. Corrosive sublimate is also of value, and oil of turpentine may be used in the same way. The liberal use of boiling hot water, wherever it may be employed without danger to furniture, etc., is also an effective method of destroying both eggs and active adults.

Various remedies and mixtures for this pest are for sale, most of them containing one or another of the ingredients mentioned, and these are frequently of value. A daily inspection of beds and bedding and all crevices and locations about the premises is the best method to use. A vigorous campaign should, in the course of a week or so at the outside, result in the extermination of this very obnoxious and embarrassing pest.

In the case of rooms containing books, or where liquid applications are inadvisable, a thorough fumigation with brimstone is an effective means of destruction. The method is as follows:

Place in the center of the room a dish containing about 4 ounces of brimstone, within a larger vessel, so that the possible overflowing of the burning mass may not injure the carpet or set fire to the floor. After removing from the room all such metallic surfaces as might be affected by the fumes, close every aperture, even the keyholes, and let fire to the brimstone. When four or five hours have elapsed the room may be entered and the windows opened for a thorough airing.

"I AM THAT MAN," SAYS CALEB POWERS.

Startling Response to Statement That a Kentucky Murderer Went to Congress.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Law students at Georgetown University were "in" today of a dramatic scene in a classroom last night in which Dr. Holmes Conrad, professor of law, and Caleb Powers, the Kentucky congressman, were the actors. In a lecture to a post-graduate class, Dr. Holmes was denouncing public sympathy for criminals and declared that some, through a mistaken public sentiment, were carried to places of power when released from prison.

"Who was that man in Kentucky who killed another and was sent to Congress?" asked the professor of the class, to illustrate his point. During the hush that immediately fell over the room, Caleb Powers, a student, sitting in the front row, rose to his feet with perfect composure and in a clear voice said: "I am that man, doctor, I was not guilty."

Dr. Conrad apologized, continued his lecture and afterward made a formal apology to Powers, saying he had not known the congressman was a member of his class.

Powers spent eight years, three months and three days in Kentucky prisons fighting for his life. He was charged with complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel.

THAT MANCHESTER POLICE COMMISSION

Manchester, Nov. 2.—It is stated on the highest authority that Governor Samuel D. Parker will name the third member of the Manchester police commission on Tuesday next.

It is also being quietly whispered that the man has been agreed upon, and that it is Michael P. Sullivan now engaged in the undertaking business, and who is now a resident of ward 3. He has been active in politics in Manchester for many years, was formerly a resident of ward 5 and enjoyed the unique distinction of being elected a Republican senator in the old 18th district, a rock-ribbed G. O. P. member of Congress. This was at the close of November, 1900.

The opponents of Chief Healy are jubilant over the prospects of the appointment of Mr. Sullivan. They state that it means the turning down of the chief, as Sullivan is known as a strong anti-Healy man. They are quietly whispering that they are going to get the support of Morse and that in and Sullivan will turn the trick.

It is said that the appointment of Sullivan has largely been brought about through the efforts of Congressman Reed, and that the selection of him is entirely satisfactory.

Matters in police circles had quieted down to a considerable extent, owing to the fact that no commissioner was named on Wednesday or Thursday and further owing to the statement that was being freely circulated that Commissioner Morse had stated that he would not unite with any Republican or Progressive to meet Chief Healy. That if the chief was to be turned out the Democrats should assume the responsibility.

It is understood that Mr. Sullivan's name was one of those considered some time ago, but at that time the governor was hostile to his appointment so it was sold.

After being buffeted around for nearly two weeks, offered to this one and to that, with the place going begging on account of the tag and muzzie that goes with the appointment, it is said that Sullivan has been urged by Reed to accept, and that he had agreed to do so, and that the matter was put up to the governor and he has at last acquiesced.

This will open the whole matter once more and start the fight afresh. It is said that already there is much opposition being developed to the appointment of Mr. Sullivan.

Michael P. Sullivan was born in Manchester, Sept. 8, 1855. He is a graduate of the old Park-street grammar school and Bryant & Stratton's business college. He is an expert bookkeeper and was for years a clerk in the Manchester National bank. He resigned some years ago to go into the undertaking business.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, Nov. 2.—Four Rockingham County boys and one girl were guests of the Rockingham County Y. M. C. A. at the New Hampshire-Rhode Island football game here Saturday.

They came in the morning and were shown over the college buildings and grounds by Mr. Oscar R. Huse, county Y. M. C. A. secretary.

The boys and girls were winners in the boy-and-girl clubs' tomato growing contests conducted in that county this past summer. All school children were invited to take part and that of several towns completed the growing and harvesting of their crops.

It was of educational value to the children and financially profitable to them. Work of this sort is to be done on a more extensive scale throughout the state by the state experiment station next season.

The Rockingham County winner who was present on the trip today was Paul Thyring, of Brentwood. The boy who did next best in the county was Sidney Lyford, of Fremont, who was also here today. The others present were Priscilla Williams, of Salem, all town winners.

John C. Kendall, director of the state experiment station, thinks that children's work of this sort may be made very profitable to the children by judicious specialization on their part. The single crop pays good returns and Mr. Kendall feels that some single flower would give rich rewards.

One woman in this state has paid the debt on her farm and made a good living by growing and selling sweet peas to the summer hotels. Her blossoms are good ones and she sells them in the morning for the breakfast tables.

Chas. H. Hill, president of the American Guernsey Cattle Breeders' club will give a lecture here Wednesday night, November 6th, on the island of Guernsey. Mr. Hill's talk will be illustrated with slides and will not be confined exclusively to the dairy in Jersey of the island.

CHILD HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Five-Year-Old Keith Bickford Struck by an Automobile.

Miss Keith Bickford, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Bickford of Irvington street, had a narrow escape from serious injury this Monday morning by being struck by an automobile.

According to those who witnessed the accident the little girl ran directly in front of the machine and was knocked down, going underneath the machine.

Mr. Brooks with good presence of mind brought his machine to a standstill and the little girl was picked up and taken to her parents' home.

The little girl was uninjured and the services of a physician were not needed. Mr. Brooks, the driver of the automobile, felt very badly over the accident, but no blame is attached to him. It was certainly a very lucky escape for the little miss.
